

International student crisis insurance

Providing dedicated emergency assistance and financial protection for crisis situations involving international students studying in the UK.

If one of your international students was involved in a serious accident and tragically lost their lives, attempted, or died of suicide, or became seriously ill, would you have the correct level of insurance cover in place?

In all circumstances, the university or college may need to provide support such as liaising with medical practitioners or family members in different countries or sourcing accommodation and transport.

Our international student crisis insurance provides 24/7 emergency assistance to manage all aspects of a crisis situation where a student requires repatriation to their home country and the financial protection to cover up to £50,000 per event.

What's covered?

In the event of a student's serious illness or injury while in the UK, costs of appropriate and suitable transport to repatriate the student to their home country.

24/7 emergency assistance to manage all aspects and logistics of a crisis where a student requires repatriation to their home country.

Transport and accommodation expenses for two family members to travel from their home country to the UK, and to accompany the student on the return journey.

Costs of funeral expenses and appropriate and suitable transport to repatriate their body or ashes to their home country.

Costs towards professional counselling to support with mental health and wellbeing issues.

Partner testimonial

“Some countries do not have a developed insurance market or culture of making insurance claims - so obtaining insurance of sufficient value to cover repatriation or major incidents is not possible. Families of overseas students arriving on campus without insurance often ask for the University’s help to pay for funerals/repatriation. Historically, all these costs have fallen on the ALF fund and internal budgets. With the increased targets to attract overseas students to make up the dip in population dynamics in the UK, the risks of multiple crises involving international students is increasing. Exploring insurance as a risk transfer mechanism enabled the creation of a bespoke product for Northumbria University at Newcastle”.
